

Hello,

While I realize you are weighing the technical aspects of using cell phones in flight, I must urge you and the airline providers to do focus groups and to look at one other industry example: Movie theaters. Movie theaters are seeing a steady decline in their use due to inappropriate behavior from cell phone use and overall lack of public knowledge on etiquette. Any airline that selects open use of cell phones will be avoided by myself, and I suspect many others in the general public. Thanks.
